The Senior Class wishes to express its gratitude to

MRS. DORIS BRUCE

for all she has done to help make our high school days

happy and successful.

Foreword

That we may remember — not all of the myriad scenes of our life here, but perhaps a cross section of it, that in later years, a glimpse of a classroom, the picture of a beloved teacher, the faces of classmates — all these will bring a flood of memories — the memories of a carefree existence, safe, even in its uncertainties, from care and worry. That as we turn the pages, we will remember half-forgotten things, and smile, and laugh, and perhaps even shed a few tears.

In the hope that it will become one of the most treasured volumes of our own personal libraries, we present the 1950 issue of the Huttlestonian.

THE OFFICE OF THE PRINCIPAL

FAIRHAVEN HIGH SCHOOL

To the Class of 1950:

Cut in stone over two entrances to our school are Latin inscriptions. One is Ad astra; the other, Carpe diem. The first of these simply means "To the stars", and is so common an expression that it is hard to say who first used it. The second inscription is found in the Odes of Horace and may be translated, "Make use of the day".

One of these sayings obviously points the way to high ideals and accomplishments, even when these seem unattainable, for while guided rockets are no longer confined to the pages of Jules Verne, few of us expect to set foot on a star. Nevertheless, we like the idea of setting our sights high and we remember that Robert Browning said, "A man's reach should exceed his grasp." The other saying may suggest its original counsel to enjoy the present and let the future take care of itself, or it may provide the loftier thought that we best make use of the day when we refuse to waste time.

There is no reason to consider these two bits of advice together, but I like to do so. Morning after morning as I walk beneath one or the other of them they admonish me that if we are to reach the heights, we must make good use of our time. The stars, to be sure, remind us of the night and Carpe diem stresses the day; but if when the sky darkens and the stars appear we are to have reached a lofty place, we must not wait until evening to begin our climb. Then I remember how a New England poet expressed it,

> "The heights by great men reached and kept
> Were not attained by sudden flight,
> But they, while their companions slept
> Were toiling upward in the night".

You are about to leave Fairhaven High School. Each of you has his own ideals and ambitions. The teaching of home and church and school should have combined to make these aims high and worthy ones. Some of you have employed your time so well that you are already conscious of progress toward your goal. Others realize that wasted time pays poor dividends and that there is no substitute, even in the Atomic Age, for hard work. But to all of you the high achievements of life beckon. For no one of you is it too late to begin to climb. Happy family life, successful work in a useful career, intelligent participation in the civic life of your time, — these are among the durable satisfactions of life toward which young people in America may make their way. It is not so everywhere in the world. The lines have fallen to you in pleasant places. You must love this land that has given you so much and that offers you so much in the future. You must pay your debt to America by developing an honest character, by being willing to work to provide the things you and other people need, by interesting yourself in the issues that confront the nation and that in a democracy must be understood and controlled by the citizens, and by putting your trust in the same God to whom the founding fathers turned when they felt the need of guidance and strength.

If you do these things, your faces will be turned up toward the stars, and you will truly make good use of every day.

Sincerely your friend,

CHESTER M. DOWNING

FEATURES

Junior Class Officers

Hello there! My name is Sally Smith. Yup! You've guessed it, I have been selected to represent the mighty Junior Class, which, incidentally, is entirely comprised of geniuses and child prodigies. Before I introduuce you to our beautiful, glamorous, and utterly scrumptious girls (each a Miss America), and our muscle-bound, athletic boys (futuure men), we'd like to analyze the word "Junior," itself.

The first letter you meet is the letter "J." This letter might easily stand for the adjective "jolly", which definitely applies to us. Take our talent show, for instance. Why, the audience was actually rolling in the aisles with laughter, and giggles could be heard in the corridors for weeks afterward. One girl reported to us later that Arturaine Godfrey, (who made a special trip from Liptonia, New York, to see the show), collapsed under the strain of seeing so much colossal entertainment and talent in one show. Mr. Godfrey's only remark was, "They've put my program to shame. I'm ruined!"

On to the letter "U", which symbolizes "understanding;" we Juniors can understand the most difficult language, math, and science problems. We have such highly developed minds in science that the Atomic Secrets Committee has been forced to abandon its plan of keeping the Atomic Theory from the public, since they have learned that some of our chemistry students have discovered the Theory through extensive research in the lab.

Now, if my spelling is correct, we will meet the letter "N" meaning "nifty." Have you ever seen a niftier class? Just take a glance at our basketball squad, our cheerleaders, our band, and our vocal groups. What do you see? Righto! Three-fourths of every group is made up of Juniors.

Well! Look what we've bumped into, the letter "I", most naturally representing "intelligent." If you'd care to look in the locker rooms, you would find the hats and caps of our super Junior Class. They are made to grow larger, if desired, for we intelligent people learn so much every day that the hats must be expanded to accommodate all our knowledge.

The little letter "O" is omniscient — translation: — all knowing, which explains itself.

As for "R", this could mean nothing but responsibility in all our undertakings, ready to help others in any way, resolved to do the best of our ability, radiant with cheerfulness, charm, kindness, and consideration, and lastly, reliant, able to be counted upon when needed for any particular situation.

Now that I have told you a bit about us, would you like to take a stroll through the corridor before you leave? You would? Fine! Oh, look! Here comes Geoffrey Chaucer Dias, one of our English teachers, down the hall. He, by the way, has just finished a marvelous book called "Fairhaven Tales." In this book he tells of the laudable compositions written by us.

Good morning, G. C. How is your book coming along? You've sold three billion copies already? Why, splendid! See you in class!

Here we are at the office, and see who's coming down the stairs! It's Barton Shurtleff and Louis Leach, two of our class officers returning from rehearsal. They are appearing in the "Tragedy of MacJunior Class," written by Wille Shakespeare Hoyle, another of our English teachers.

I'm afraid I must leave you now. I have an important meeting with Mr. Downing, our principal, now, but I hope to see you soon.

Maybe I will? What? You're a member of the Senior class? Perhaps I'll see you at graduation exercises, you say? Well now! We'd like to wish you the best in the future. And say, don't forget to clean out those desks in Room 7 — we'll be movin' in soon.

See you all then!

November 10, 1964.

Chomp Bubble Gum presents Hedda Hunton with the latest news.

Flash! Russell S. Arruda ran a close second to Miss Dorothy Leitao in our recent presidential election. She is our first woman president of the United States . . . David Hassett, inventor of that new miracle instrument, the Hassophone, has just been appointed conductor of the U. S. Navy Band . . . Augustine Silveira, "the human guinea pig," is being used to test a new vitamin pill, Professor Anthony Albert's "Mira-Gro." Look out, Bart Leach and Lou Shurtleff, this stuff might really work!

The noted explorer, Daniel C. W. Walsh, is conducting a million dollar expedition to the Antarctic. He announces his rediscovery of the long-extinct Dodo bird . . . "Mighty-Mite" Hall has done it again! He has finally apprehended that notorious arch-criminal, "Dillinger" Hann . . . Doris Pacheco and Claire Fleurent have announced that their newly-compiled French grammar, entitled "French Made Easy," is a great success. It has been approved and highly recommended by Professor Albert Desrosiers, Dean of Romance Languages at Cuttyhunk College for Women.

Dr. William C. Kerwin, 3rd, eminent biologist and former pupil of Melvin Entin, Professor of Biology at F. H. S., has re-classified the animal kingdom, it was announced today by Hubert Hemingway, Dean of Men at the University for Demented Dog Lovers and Backward Candle Makers Cynthia Black, president of Mattapoisett's own Candy Coated Toothpick Co., has announced that Cecil Foote of the splinter department has been appointed their chief clipper.

Bob Russell, graduate of the University of Unbalanced Undertakers, is the newly-elected president of the U. E. P. A. C. (Undertakers, Embalmers, and Pallbearers Athletic Club) . . . "Curly" Lee Bradley has been stricken with Ravenitis, a new disease contracted during his recent expedition to Patagonia . Louis "Swisha" Xifaras, Yale's stellar basketball performer, has been offered a position on the Boston Celtics by Coach Entin to replace the aging Tony Slavelli.

Exclusive! Sigrid Knudesen, heiress to the Vandenberg Pumpernickle fortune, will wed Ala King of Turkey in the early spring.

Before closing, I've been asked to announce that the F. H. S. Class of 1950 is planning a class reunion. I know you've all heard of such eminent members of that outstanding class as our newly-elected Vice President, Hor Chin; Mr. Arsene Duval, president of Universal-International Pharmacies, Inc., and Mr. Richard Norman, director of the Capehart Television Co.

Well, that's all for now, folks, and don't forget our sponsor. Don't be a chump! Chew Chomp! Choice of champs!

Class Will

We, the class of 1950, being in full possession of sound minds and memories, and the sanity of our teachers, do hereby grant, will, and bequeath the following general and specific articles:

Item I. Bill Donaghy leaves his knowledge of geometry (curves and figures, that is) to Milton George.

Item II. Mary Coelho leaves all her parties to any Junior girl who has a house large enough to hold them, and a constitution strong enough to stand them.

Item III. Phyllis Martin leaves her love for men to just anyone who can understand them.

Item IV. Dick Norman leaves his pork-pie hat to a Junior girl who collects exclusive Parisian creations.

Item V. Nancy Sweet and Van Barteau leave their sleepy morning entrances to Walter Silveira, in the hope that he possesses a better alarm clock.

Item VI. Harry Arnold Greene wills his subscription to his favorite magazine, "The Ladies' Home Journal," to Lou Shurtleff. From one ladies' man to another.

Item VII. Lois Martin leaves her argyle socks to anyone with strong eyes or a pair of sun-glasses.

Item VIII. Robert Barrows bequeaths his position as star no. 1 on Miss Boucher's hit parade to Bart Leach. Maybe this will make you a Frenchman, mais oui, Bart?

Item IX. The third-year French class leaves their interlinear translations of "Les Miserables" and "Carmen" to the oncoming Seniors, who will certainly need them.

Item X. Barbara Pearson gladly leaves Biology — and Mr. Entin.

Item XI. To Dave Someiro and Connie Sherman, Myra Powers leaves her cherished guidebook — "The Use of the Library as a Rendezvous."

Item XII. Marji Howes leaves her front seat in English to any Junior girl who will make a little more of her opportunities than Margie did.

Item XIII. Ed Judson leaves his hand-embroidered shirt to Dale Stetson, for whenever he grows into it.

Item XIV. To any red-blooded Junior who feels he can stand the rigors of a dancing-calling life, Pat Sylvia wills her genuine South Seas, Cowboy and Indian, white silk handkerchief, Rowdy-Dow! Strictly for use at square dances!

Item XV. Robert Lomax leaves his strut and the shine on his baton to Joan Crompton.

Item XVI. His hand-painted tie Edmund Lewis leaves to Miss Hoyle, in the hope that in time she will become reconciled to its gaudy hues.

Item XVII. So that future U. S. History students will no longer be puzzled by his hieroglyphics, Mr. Clement's 2nd period class leaves him a home-study course in map-making.

Item XVIII. Jo-Ann Walker leaves her position as head cheer-leader, plus six pairs of boxing gloves, to the Junior candidates. May the best man (?) win.

Item XIX. To Mr. Dias, the editorial staff leaves all its rejected write-ups in one volume so that he may add it to his Senior approved reading list.

Item XX. We, as a class, leave to posterity, our ad-collecting record. "We are feeling mighty low."

Item XXI. To Miss Boucher, Ruth Hubbard leaves all her clever translations of "Le Voyage de Monsieur Perrichon." "How! I do not wish to hit him with a soldier!"

Item XXII. Mary Jura leaves her cashier's booth to any girl who would like an excuse for leaving fourth period twenty minutes before the passing bell.

Now on this 26th day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifty, as we make our final departure from these cherished halls of knowledge, we joyfully set the seal on this document, after first appointing Sadie of the Lunchroom as final executor of this, our last will and testimony.

Senior Class Play

"ALMOST EIGHTEEN"

Take one adolescent male, a blustering father, toss in a happy-go-lucky uncle, stir in one irate neighbor, add a speck of romance, a clash of "tragedy," season well with humor, trim with Miss Hoyle's fine direction, and the result is the Class of '50 production, "Almost Eighteen."

The slightly complicated plot revolves around Eddie Barry, (Edmund Lewis) a seventeen-year old with an unusually large capacity for getting in trouble, and an ambition to sing over the radio as, "Sancho Barry, Melody Thief of the Air Waves."

Eddie wins $250 in an essay contest, much to the delight of his father, ("Gerry" Smith), mother (Mary E. Harding), and sister Beatrice (Jo-Ann Walker). Later, however, it is discovered that the prize winning essay had been copied. The judges, Mrs. Granville (Elinor Dobson), Miss Dalrymple (Audrey Brisson), and Eddie's English teacher, Professor Merritt (Robert Dennie), accuse Eddie of plagiarism. Since the essay is in his handwriting and bears his name, Ed's denials are of no avail, and he is unjustly ostracized.

Mabel Warren (Eileen Honohan), the local music teacher, is one of the few who remain faithful to him as his girl friend, Ann Sherman (Phyllis Martin), lets him down with a thump.

Uncle George (Bill Donaghy) returns from a fishing trip in time to rectify the situation, and Eddie's name is fully cleared.

Eddie's classmates, Tommy Granville (Webster Wilde), and his girlfriend, Sally Davidson (Pat Sylvia), add a note of comedy and vitality to the situation.

The real heroine of the play, though, is our faithful prompter, Myra Powers, who was always ready with a cue or a line when needed.

As any actor, amateur, or professional will tell you, the most fun in being in a play is the rehearsals, and we found this to be really true.

The hours from two to four are spent in consuming unbelievable amounts of potato-chips, candy, peanut butter sandwiches, cake, cokes, milk, and ice-cream; gabbing about last night's basketball game, and learning to act and react every minute you are on the stage.

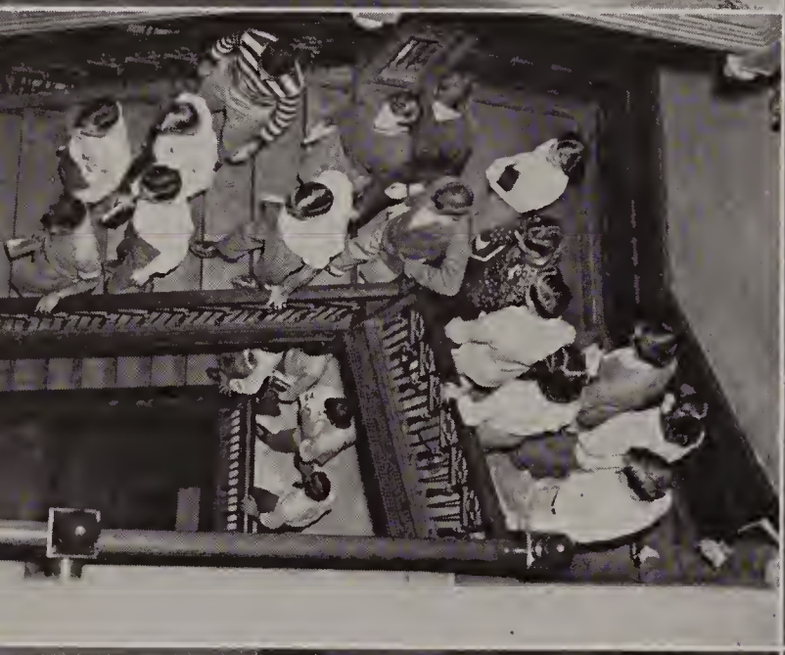

One form of entertainment during rehearsals is watching other members of the cast when Miss Hoyle is directing someone in particular. Par example, while Miss Hoyle was showing Edmund the expression Eddie Barry should register when he realizes the prize essay is not his, Webster Wilde and Bobby Dennie, believing themselves unobserved, were earnestly contorting their face in an attempt to appear agonized. They did! Too bad there were no Hollywood talent scouts in the house.

Although we do not really believe ourselves to be Broadway material, we are certain that our Senior Play, "Almost Eighteen," deserves to take its place among all the other fine productions of past years.

The Honor Society

The Fairhaven High School Chapter of the National Honor Society was established in 1927 to promote the development of high standards of scholarship and character among the student body of the school. Its history has been an extremely successful one, and, each year, in March, its ranks have been increased by the addition of a considerable number of new members who have been able to meet the high intellectual and personal standards which are requisite to membership in this society.

We, of the class of 1950, are proud of our membership in this notable organization. We are not unaware, however, that we are required to fulfill certain obligations which this membership requires. We are all ready and willing to take our places in the ranks of good and loyal citizens, guided always by the four by-words of our society: Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

Robert Barrows '50

Student Council

We, the representatives of the student body, in the course of a successful year, feel we have made progress under our capable advisors, Mr. Chester M. Downing and Mr. Earl J. Dias.

The many problems brought before us were considered carefully, with the welfare of the school uppermost in mind.

The officers of this group are: President, Mary E. C. Harding; Vice President, Hor Chin; Secretary-Treasurer, Pearl Samaska.

With all our many activities tucked proudly in our hat, the most prominent affair of the year was the Student Council Convention, held here on December 7, 1949. Though much hard work was involved in its preparation, we felt it was worth our extra efforts to be able to meet delegates from fifty-one other schools, and to compare and discuss our various problems.

Carol Fisher '51

The Key Club

Filled with new energy and enthusiasm, this year's Key Club is one of which the school can be justly proud. The majority of the membership this year has been made up of Sophomores and Juniors. These "eager beavers" have turned the club into a live-wire organization with projects and services being accomplished in large number.

Notable projects have been: selling programs at football games, ushering during National Education Week, and selling soft drinks and candy at all home basketball games.

Each week, a representative from the club attends the New Bedford Kiwanis Club meeting. Plans are being made to have a good turnout from our club at the District and International Conventions in Boston and Columbus, Ohio, respectively.

Richard Norman '50

Orchestra

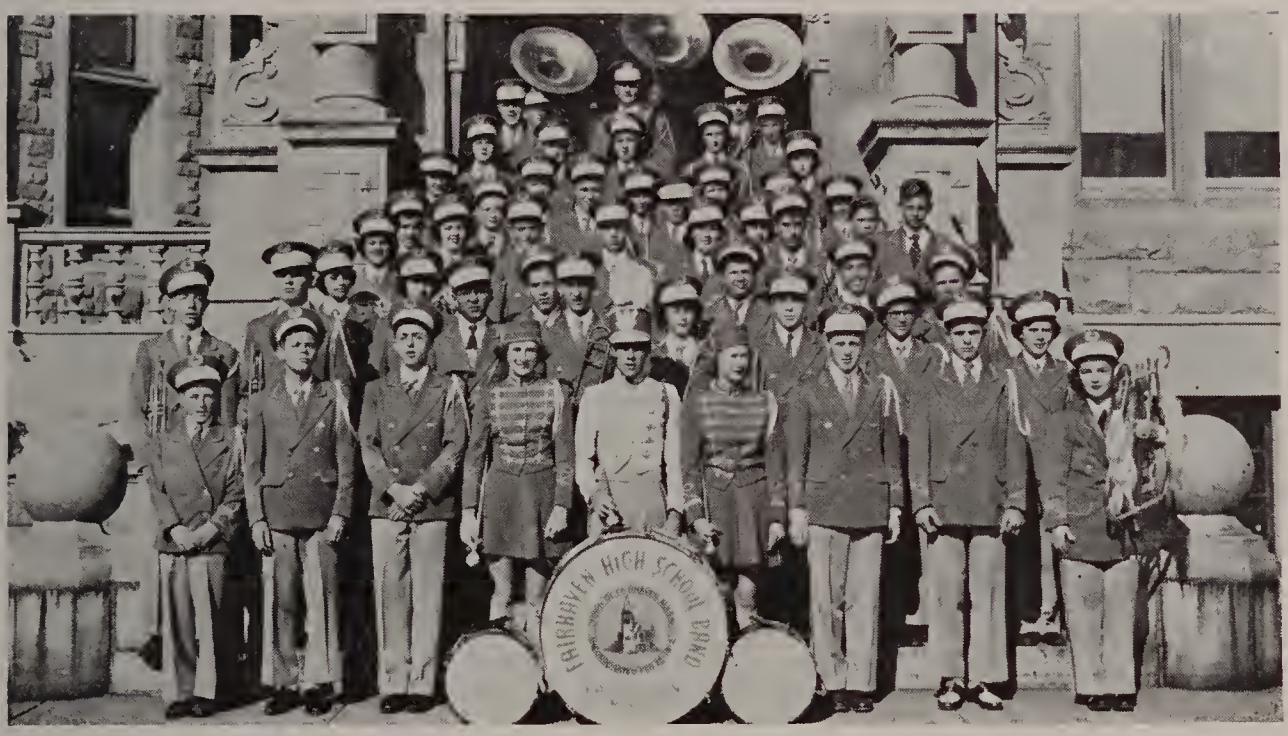

Sixty-four expert musicians, headed by concert master Donald Smith, comprise the 1949-50 Senior Orchestra of Fairhaven High. These able and eager pupils, who have passed a rigid examination in order to qualify for membership in the orchestra, play at many public affairs, among which are the Senior Play, graduation, assemblies, and their major achievement of the year, the May Festival.

Special groups selected from the entire orchestra take part in community activities, and in January entertain at the Newport Naval Hospital in Rhode Island.

This year, in May, the orchestra also plans to represent F. H. S. at the State Festival in Attleboro and the New England Festival at Old Orchard, Maine. We feel sure that they will live up to the fine standards attained in former years.

Pat Sylvia '50

Senior Band

Strike up the band! Fifty-seven members, dressed in their traditional blue and white may be seen and heard at rallies, games, and the Annual Pops Concert. This last summer, at Cushman Park every Tuesday night the group also participated in concerts to raise money for an oboe.

Another project which these energetic young people attempted, successfully, was the concession run at every home football game with the aid of interested parents. The net proceeds from this experiment were $400, which also will be used to purchase instruments.

In addition to these activities, the band is preparing for the music festival, where, this year, they hope to join with the chorus in musical arrangements.

Jo-Ann Walker '50

The Vocal Ensemble

Among the many pleasurable and profitable social activities of the high school are the vocal ensemble and various glee clubs.

Several of the audiences for whom the 25 talented students of the ensemble have performed are local granges, the Newport Naval Hospital, and the Lyman Class.

The ensemble, because of its fine work, was honored with an invitation to the Old Orchard Pier Festival.

They also took part in the New England and State Festivals.

To this musical organization, the Class of '50 extends heartiest congratulations.

M. Howes '50

Boys' and Girls' Glee Club

The opportunities for participating in vocal music at Fairhaven High School are many and pleasurable. In addition to the Vocal Ensemble, there are a Boys' Glee Club and a Girls' Glee Club. These two groups, under the capable direction of Mrs. Marguerite Johnson, sing at school assemblies and before many local clubs and organizations.

Barbara Pearson '50

Le Cercle Francais

Encore une fois le Cercle Français de Fairhaven High School est réorganizé sous la direction de Mlle. Doris Boucher. L'anneé passée, le cercle a eu une dizaine de reunions qui furent très intéressantes, et pendant l'année 1949-1950, nous comptons continuer ces activités, et peut-être les agrandir.

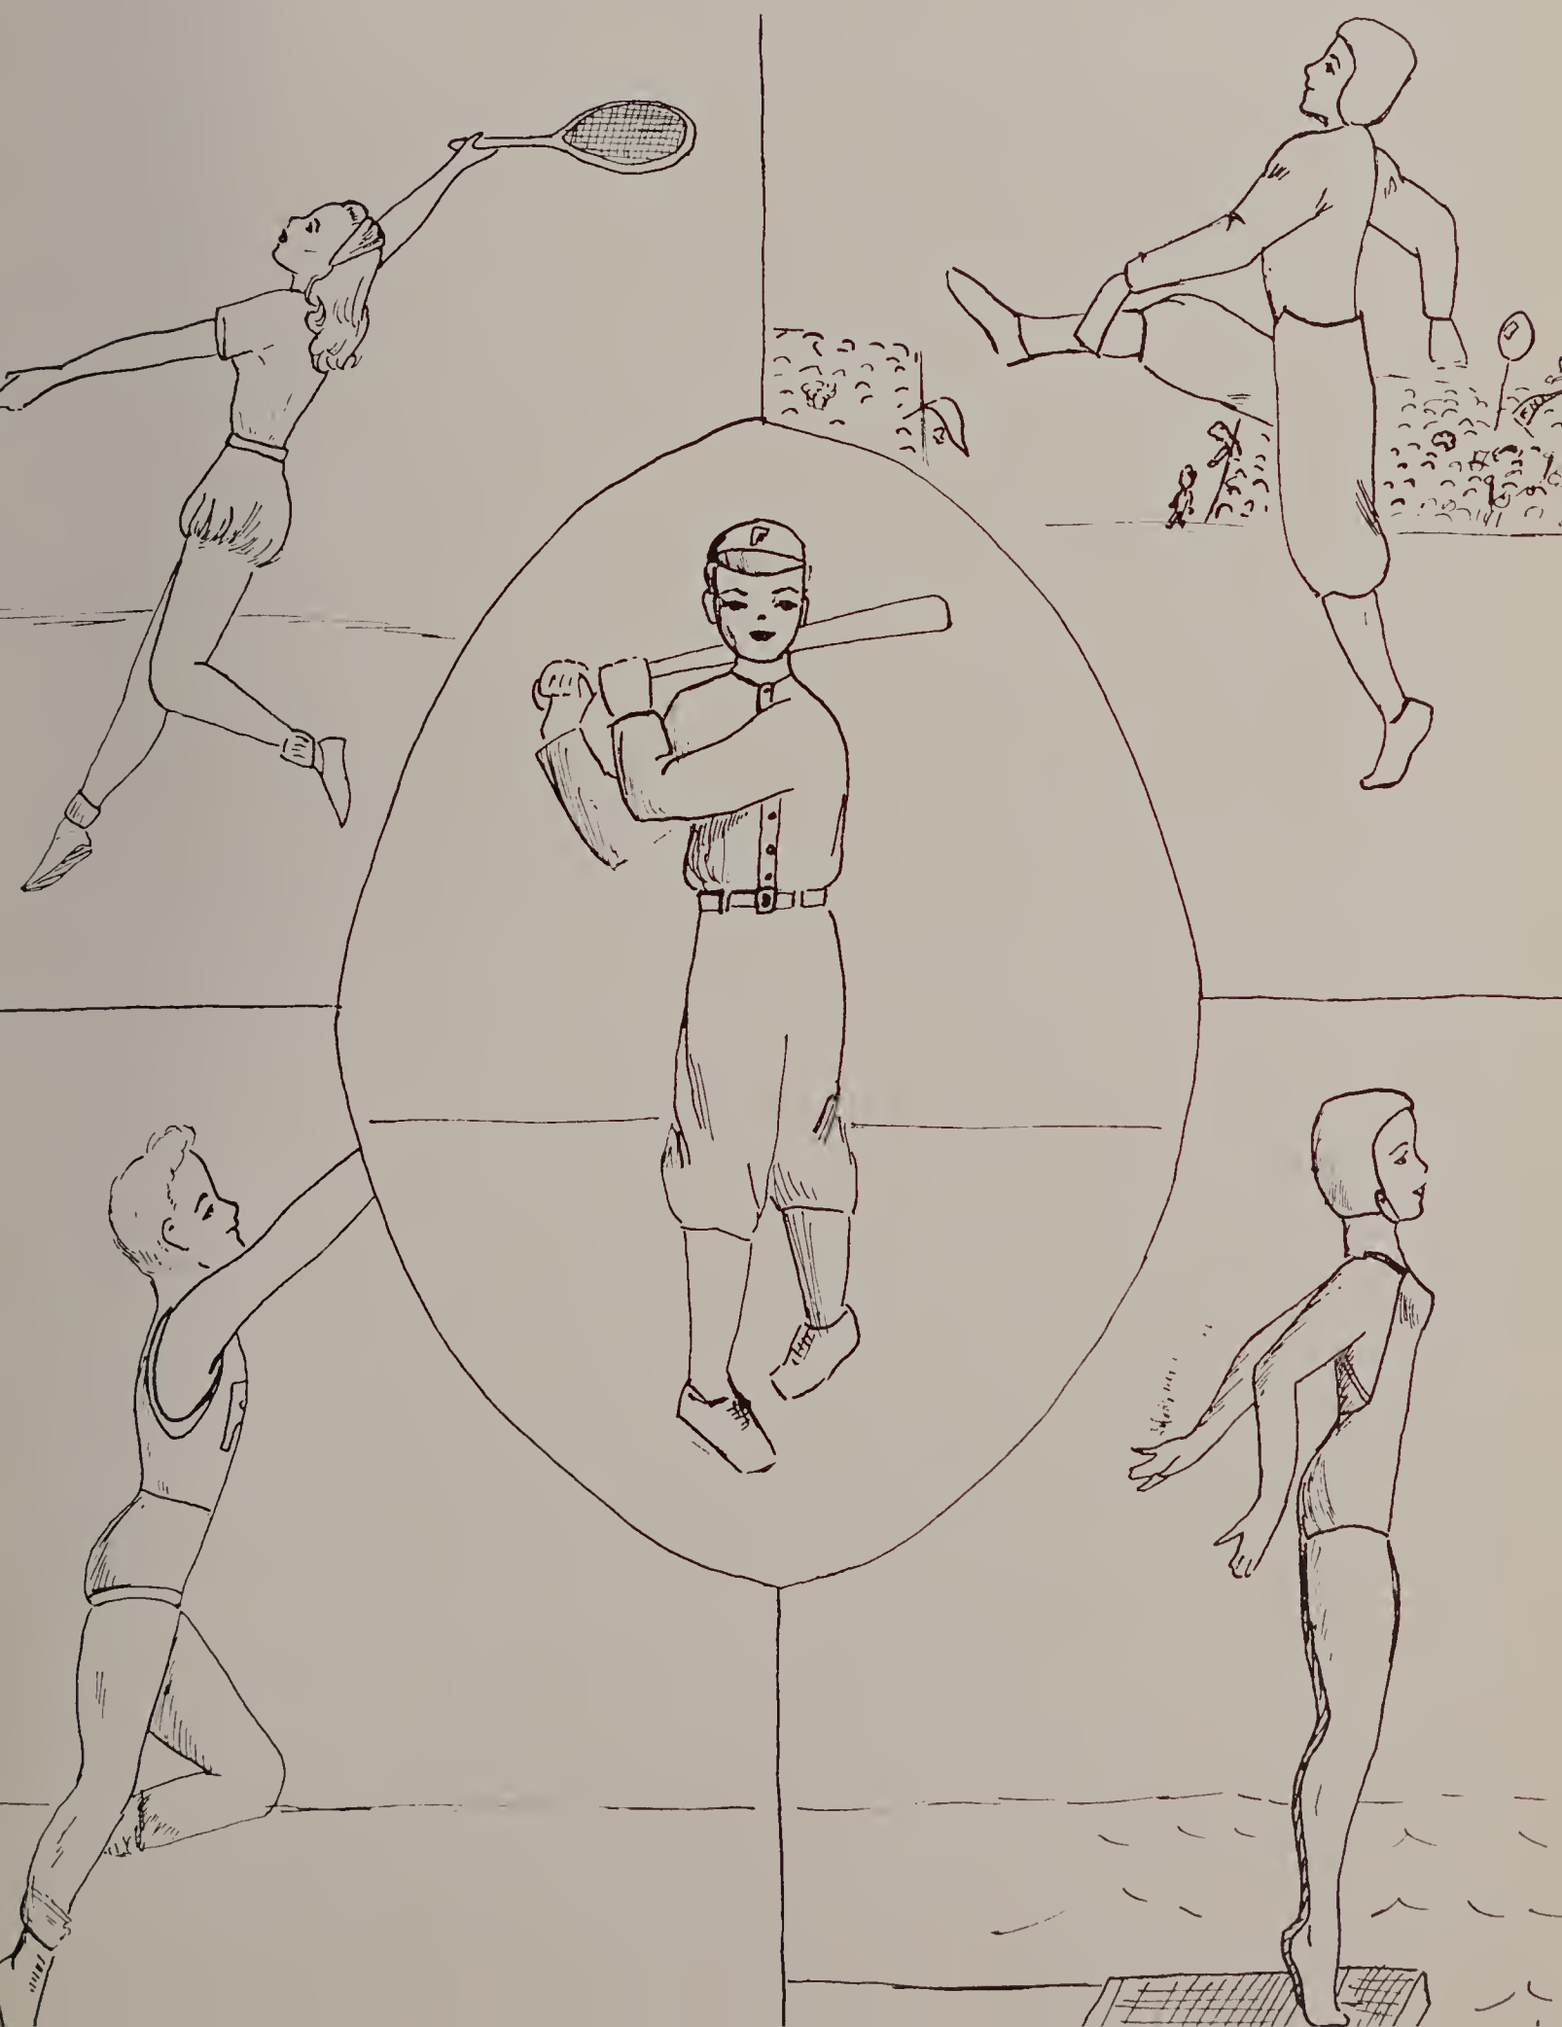

Le cercle a deux buts particuliers. Le premier est de faire apprécier la culture et la civilization française. Le second est d'établir une société social ou l'on peut s'amuser à la francaise. Ainsi, le cercle est divisé en divers comités, qui sont chargés de contribuer au programme. Il y a un comité de musique, de pieces, de souvenirs, de rafraichissements, et de publicité.

Les officiers pour l'an 1950 sont les suivants:

Présidente	Mary Harding
Vice-présidente	Marjorie Howes
Secrétaire	Myra Powers
Trésoriere	Patricia Sylvia

Robert Barrows '50

SPORTS

Football

The 1949 football season was an unusual one, to say the least. Only twice in nine games was the Blue able to field its strongest team. Numerous injuries hit key players at the most inopportune times. Even with such handicaps as these, the fighting Fairhaven eleven managed to post four victories (over Coyle, Dartmouth, Falmouth, and St. Anthony) on the credit side of the ledger.

Fairhaven never failed to please the fans, however. With the great passing of Bart Leach and the often phenomenal pass receiving of end, Al Simmons, the Blue was always a threat.

In the traditional big game with New Bedford, the boys played inspired football. The points they scored in their 34—14 defeat were the most that had been scored all year against the greatest gridiron machine that has represented New Bedford High School in many a year.

Richard Norman '50

Basketball

So proudly we hail: The greatest basketball team in the history of Fairhaven High School, undefeated in twenty-four games, winners of Eastern Massachusetts championship in Class B; and coach of this amazing sextet, the incomparable Mel Entin.

Launching their most successful season with 20 straight victories, this well-coordinated group of boys went on to Boston to achieve the most coveted prize of all, the Tech Tourney cup, amid the cheers of wildly rooting fans who filled Boston Garden with roars of acclamation. Before leaving this scene of triumph, Captain Leach was honored with the most valuable player award, and he, Hennessy and Shurtleff were chosen as guard, forward, and center, respectively, for the All-Tournament team.

Back home, the townspeople showed its heroes their loyalty and pride in several rallies staged for the triumphant hoopsters.

The scores of the Tourney games:

Fairhaven	55	Marblehead	30
Fairhaven	53	Milton	38
Fairhaven	64	Belmont	43

Barbara Pearson '50

1950 Class B Champions

Cheerleaders

Because of the fact that of the seven vivacious cheerleaders, six were veterans with at least one year's experience, the squad went ahead to lead the school and the team in rousing cheers of victory.

Early in the year, they were honored by an invitation to cheer for the Boston Celtics, and proved their mettle in carrying Fairhaven High's spirit to the Boston Arena.

Let us hope Fairhaven will always have something to cheer about in all its athletic endeavors.

Jo-Ann Walker '50

G. A. A.

The Fairhaven G. A. A. has accomplished a great deal under the guidance of Mrs. Sullivan, its advisor, and a competent slate of officers headed by Hor Chin as President. The organization has gained admission to the Narragansett League, and, thus, the teams will have heavier schedules than ever before.

Future plans include a spring dance, as well as the formation of tennis and varsity softball teams.

Jacqueline Burke '50

Girl's Basketball

At the conclusion of its first month of organization, the basketball team has played and won two games, with 5 others yet to be played.

The teams already defeated are Dartmouth and Somerset, the latter a newcomer to our schedule. Since we have seen our way clear to join the Narragansett League, the team has a full and rigid season ahead. Let's hope they continue the good work they've started, and go on to gain many more victories.

Jacqueline Burke '50
